

Figure 7: The blue lines join the first and the last epoch data points. The source would move along these lines if there wasn't any black hole in front of it. However, the position of the source that was observed is deflected due to microlensing effects by the black hole.